ABSTRACT

Customer relationship management has got greater importance and it is one of the hottest and emerging practices in the business field. In previous days mostly manufacturer gave priority to only for product they do not bother about customers taste and preference simply they focus on how to sold this product but now the scenario is totally changed because customers got more awareness and they give importance to their own taste and preference all these situations change the manufacturer mind set to focused on customer rather than product. These conditions make the business more complex and every day the new entrances come with new ideas and it makes the customers to become switchers and this leads to importance for customer relationship management. In the present competitive environment, CRM is only tool which turns up the customers to again visit the organization and it makes the normal customers into a profitable customers. CRM not only focused on retain the customers and it attracts the new customers and it solves the customers' problems and makes the organization to become strong in all aspects. However there is a limited research that the relationship between CRM functions and organization performance.

I. INTRODUCTION

The emergence of services organizations in the corporate sector, the growing competition due to liberalization, and the growing expectations of customers propelled by globalization and facilitated by IT revolution - are defining new rules of game for existing private and public enterprises in India. Telecom is one of the fast growing sectors among the services. The mobile revolution has created a new wave of interest among people to utilize telephone services. The firms offering the services are vying with each other to capture this sudden spurt in demand. They are using their technology and marketing prowess to attract new customers and simultaneously retain their existing customers, make inroads into competition and at the same time build entry barriers to competition to defend their position.

Customer-driven initiatives to attract, retain and build intimate long term relationship with profitable customers, innovation and delivery of Quality Service have become the key elements in the marketing strategies. Relationship Management with the three focal points – Customer Perceived Value, Customer Satisfaction and Customer Loyalty – has become key success factor in achieving sustained customer patronage and profitability to the firm. Customer Relationship Management (CRM) is an effective tool to achieve this goal. The philosophy and practices of CRM in telecom has caught the attention of policy makers, academicians and researchers.
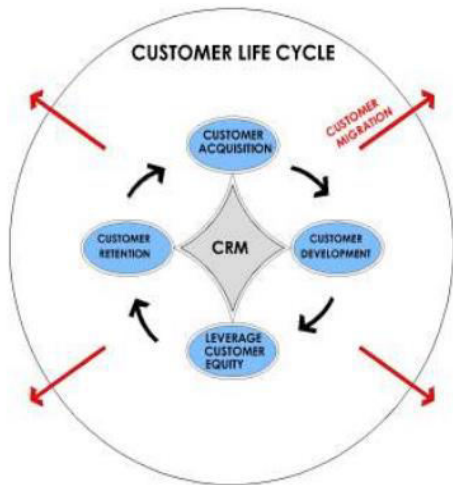

PRINCIPLES OF CRM

The basic underlying principles guiding development of CRM can be summarized as:

1. Principle of 'Customer Life Time Value (CLV)'

2. Principle of 'Customer Satisfaction (CS)'

3. Principle of 'Customer Loyalty'

4. Principle of 'Wallet share of Customer'

5. Principle of 'Cross Selling and Up Selling'

6. Principle of 'Customer Profitability

OBJECTIVES OF THE STUDY

1. To study the CRM practices in Reliance life insurance company
2. To study the services provided to customers to build loyalty
3. To study the current market trends in Customer Relationship Management.
4. To study the companies efforts in maintaining and motivating the advisors for retaining an existing customer and building a new customer.

II. CUSTOMER LIFE CYCLE

The customer life cycle starts with a clear and precise assessment of customer needs and then attracting them with the traditional modes of advertising or through recommendations.

The next step would be customer development i.e. please the customer by offering him a product of his dreams by learning about it from him through close relations with him.

Then comes the stage of leveraging customer equity wherein cross selling and up selling are resorted to but while keeping in mind that there must be mutual value creation. The last part of customer life cycle management is retaining the existing customers and trying for more customers through referrals of these satisfied customers. In spite of all these efforts there will be a certain amount of customer migration at various stages due to various reasons. CRM tries to work out ways to identify the reasons of defections and introspect about the methods and assumptions that are made during the whole process. Basically the question arises whether these
